Deepavali surprise: Petrol, diesel to be cheaper

After Centre, people await State also to reduce rates

▶ Consumers happy, but traders not as profit margin reduces

▶ Ever-rising commercial LPG prices put hoteliers in soup

Mysuru, Nov. 4 (RK&BCT)- Hours after the Central Government cut the Excise Duty on petrol and diesel, nine BJP-ruled States announced additional reductions in fuel prices. These States include Karnataka, Assam, Tripura, Manipur, Goa, Uttar Pradesh, Gujarat, Himachal Pradesh, Haryana and Uttarakhand.

The Centre, on the eve of Deepavali, took a significant decision of reducing Central Excise Duty on petrol by Rs. 5 and Rs. 10 on diesel and also urged State Governments to commensurately reduce VAT on petrol and diesel to give relief to consumers.

Yesterday, petrol price in Mysuru stood at Rs. 113.63 a litre, while diesel was available at Rs. 104.25 a litre. Today, after the Central Government's gift, the petrol prices stood at Rs. 107.35 following a Rs. 6.60 cut, while diesel was being sold at Rs. 91.76 a litre after Rs. 12.40 cut.

After the Centre, the Karnataka Government announced slashing their prices by an additional Rs. 7 per litre. In a series of tweets, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai said that petrol will now cost approximately Rs. 95.90 a litre and diesel Rs. 81.5 in Karnataka and the changes would come into effect today evening or midnight.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

Línea Calma ("The Calm Line") is a helpline for men in Bogotá, Colombia. It was launched in December 2020 to provide assistance for men dealing with anger, jealousy, the desire to control, anxiousness and other emotions, some of which potentially lead to violence against women. Nothing like this exists here in India yet. But there are helplines for men to report abuse, including physical or sexual violence from women and especially when domestic abuse charges have been raised against them (under Section 498A).

What would a helpline for men be like? To have such a premise would mean that even a man who has experienced abuse from his wife or wife's family should be able to call this helpline and be understood and assisted. The onus will not be on the person seeking help — the one on the inside of a personal nightmare — to shoulder systemic weights, but the onus is on the staff to avoid misogynistic framing.

Artist creates beautiful beer bottle cap mosaics

Paris: A French graphic designer managed to mix his love of beer with a passion for art by creating beautiful beer bottle cap mosaics of various pop icons.

One could say that Paris-based graphic designer Jean Marie Lambert drinks in the name of art. Having noticed that the various beers he loved so much had different colors and designs, he one day decided to combine them into an original mosaic and the result was so impressive that he decided to turn it into a whole series. Inspired by famous artworks like the Mona Lisa or Girl with a Pearl Earring and icons like Han Solo or football superstar Maradona, Lambert creates mosaics that a just detailed enough to be familiar and attract viewers' attention.

Tattoo artist and his holographic sticker tattoos

Porto Alegre: Brazilian tattoo artist Clayton Dias has been getting attention for his signature holographic sticker tattoos that not only have the characteristic metallic shimmer of the real thing but also appear to be applied on the skin.

Sticker tattoos have become popular and the rising popularity of artists like Lucke Cormier is a clear example of that. Clayton Dias, a tattoo artist from Porto Alegre, Brazil, developed his own technique of giving sticker tattoos the holographic treatment, which gives them a characteristic metallic shimmer.

Clayton Dias sticker artworks were simple stickers, then he came up with ways of making it look like the tattoos were peeling off of the skin. He developed a technique to make the stickers appear holographic, which requires a firm knowledge of shading, light reflection and subtle changes in color.

Encroachment of public property and official apathy

Sir,

This refers to the news item titled "MCC launches Rajakaluve encroachment clearance drive from Bogadi Lake" (SOM dated Oct.29).

Looks like the MCC woke up from its deep slumber only after a flooding and the death of one person. Is it not the duty of the MCC to govern the city and make sure lakes and public property are not encroached?

If you go around the city, especially Sayyaji Rao Road, there is encroachment everywhere. Public property (balustrades) is destroyed; Potholes and garbage all over; Streetlights not working; Pedestrian crossings not maintained; Policing not good; Tax collection is bad; Crores of rupees spent on decorations when the priority should be on road maintenance and cleanliness.

Fibre-Optic and DTH cables strung from light poles and trees instead of going underground. What a mess our city is in? And why this official apathy?

'Yuvajanotsava helps in unearthing young talents'

Mysuru, Nov. 4 (MTY&DM)- Maintaining that Yuvajanotsava provides a notable platform for unearthing young talents, District Minister S.T. Somashekar said that the youths must utilise this opportunity for taking forward their career. He was speaking after inaugurating Mysuru District-level Yuvajanotsava event organised jointly by Zilla Panchayat (ZP), Department of Youth Empowerment and Sports (DYES), Nehru Yuva Kendra and NSS, at Chamundi Vihar Stadium in Nazarbad here on Monday.

NR MLA Tanveer Sait, in his address, said that Chamundi Vihar Stadium must be thrown open for all members of the public to carry out physical exercises and sporting activities.

Maintaining that the Stadium has been out of bounds for public after a synthetic track was laid and developed, Sait observed that this has hindered the public to carry out physical exercises.

Stressing on the need for appointment of more physical education teachers in schools, he noted that such a step will help in making the children get more active and motivated. He further said that sports will help in developing a spirit of patriotism and discipline among youths.

Festival brings no light to clay diya-makers

Diminishing demand, cheap Chinese lamps leave traditional potters in the lurch

Earthen lamp-makers seen checking the baked diyas for damage at a kiln in Doora village near Mysuru before packing them.

By M.T. Yogesh Kumar

Mysuru, Nov. 4- Cheap, colourful and attractive Chinese lights in the market have affected the livelihood and income of clay craftsmen (potters) badly. Potters in and around Mysuru say that for the past several years during Deepavali festival, Chinese lights are more in demand as compared to clay lamps. They say customers are more attracted towards the China-made lamps because they are cheaper and their availability is high.

Until only a few years ago, Doora village, over 20 kilometres from Mysuru, buzzed with activity as several potter families used to be involved in their traditional occupation of making earthen diyas for the festival of lights. Now, there are hardly a few. The village which used to be filled with energy and smell of clay this time of the year is dull as the artisan families opted to make only limited and made-to-order diyas.

The reason behind the popularity of Chinese lights is its cheap cost and wide availability in the market. A clay diya costs anywhere between Rs. 50 and Rs. 100 while the Chinese lights are available for Rs. 30 and naturally there is a tilt, they said.

The demand for colourfully painted moulded lamps has, however, snatched away the livelihood of potters who have been in the profession since decades. The Kumbara community (potters) is now fighting for their existence — neither can they survive with meagre earnings nor can they easily switch to other professions.

Ningamma, mother of potter D. Revanna (K.T. Street) with the diyas.

However, an encouraging thing here is that the clay diya industry has not entirely been wiped away. There are still some families at Doora who are still carrying on the tradition with elan. And they do it just for the passion of doing so though the sales are limited — equal to a trickle when compared to the earlier years.

Earlier, the potter families used to sell clay diyas for every Deepavali and the numbers would touch 10 lakh to 15 lakh. Now the sales have declined to just two lakhs. It was a profitable business earlier but not now, potters said.

Cooperative for pottery

Since the last four to five years, Kumbara families at Doora have come together to form an association called Kumbara Kushala Kaigarika Sangha through which they are supporting each other to make a living out of pottery. Two to four members from each family join together every day and start preparing to make lamps, pots and other clay items.

The Sangha does not produce diyas on a large scale but after making a few customary ones, they make only pre-ordered diyas so that their business does not suffer.

"Gone are the days when the city used to witness the sale of these earthen lamps in every nook and corner. Buyers were usually surrounded by womenfolk who choose the best ones with neat finish and without a crack so that the oil does not seep through. Now designer diyas are flooding the market along with the lamps made of porcelain, brass, bronze and glass. And there are Chinese ones with lights that burn with electricity," said Revanna, a potter on K.T. Street.

Laborious process

The original traditional lamp-making at Doora is a painstaking process. The clay is softened by stomping on clay mounds constantly. Once they are prepared, the lamps are baked to certain degrees inside a specially designed clay kiln. Lamps and pots are baked for 10 hours using dried coconut fronds and are removed from the kiln after three days. Later, they are segregated.

Once they are removed, each lamp is tested by potters by tapping on them to see if they are well-baked and hard. The fully baked lamps and pots are identified based on the sound that comes out of each lamp. A well-baked lamp or pot makes a sound similar to a copper vessel which is not the case of diyas manufactured in factories.

"Chinese lamps have ruined our business. Earlier, we used to get orders for clay lamps three to four months before Deepavali. But now, things are different and we get only minimum orders. Even the prices of inputs like clay, wood and transportation cost have increased four to five times in the last decade. We don't get good prices and for a small lamp, we get Re. 1 and Rs. 3 while we get Rs. 6 to Rs. 7 for each big-size diya. The same are sold anywhere between Rs. 50 and Rs. 80 in shops," Revanna added.

"We 14 families have formed Kumbara Kushala Kaigarika Sangha and of them only eight families are producing clay diyas during Deepavali season. Earlier, we used to produce 10 to 15 lakh diyas and now it has come down to 2 lakh diyas. There is a demand for bigger lamps from Lord Ayyappa devotees. We are somehow pulling on as we also make other clay items like flower vases, tulasi katte, vessels and dhoop containers. During summer, we collect clay from various sources and stock it up so that it will last us for a year."

— Govindaraju, a traditional diya-maker at Doora village & member of Kumbara Kushala Kaigarika Sangha

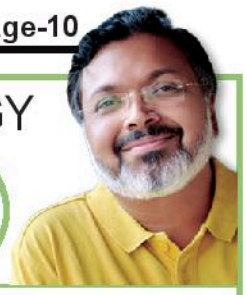
DECODING MYTHOLOGY



Dr. Devdutt Pattanaik - Author, Speaker, Illustrator, Mythologist

Is Shiva the Destroyer of Evil?

In popular understanding of the mythology, Brahma is called the Creator, Vishnu, the Preserver and Shiva, the Destroyer. When you ask people why Shiva is called the destroyer, they will answer, it is because he is the destroyer of evil. But if Shiva is the destroyer of evil, does it mean Brahma is the creator of evil and does it mean Vishnu is the preserver of evil? Such counter questions make the word, "destroyer" problematic.

Also, the word evil is not a Hindu word. It belongs to cultures that do not believe in rebirth and karma. Hence, we have to ask ourselves: what is as okay being created by Brahma as it is being preserved by Vishnu and destroyed by Shiva? Perhaps a study of what Shiva actually destroys helps figure this out.

Shiva is associated with the impaling of an asura called Andhaka, or darkness, a demon who could not distinguish in his blindness the difference between mother and wife. He is associated with the destruction of Kama, the God of Desire, hence Shiva is called Kamataka.

He overpowers Yama, the God of Death, which is why Shiva is called Yamantaka. He is associated with the beheading of Brahma, hence Kapalin. He beheads Daksha and overturns Daksha's yagya, which is a very famous story. He destroys three cities of asuras, the Tripura, hence called Tripurantaka. He's also associated with the destruction of the poison, Halahal, that emerges from the ocean of milk.

With these stories, we realise Shiva is associated with the destruction of darkness, that manifests with desire, death and time, as well as destruction of the three worlds, and yagna. But this destruction is compensated by Shiva's actions associated with regeneration: marrying Shakti, fathering Karthikeya and Ganesha, enabling descent of the River Ganga from heaven to earth, enabling rebirth. By destroying yagna, Tripura, Kama, Yama and Andhaka, we see that Shiva is at one level associated with destroying the cycle of rebirth. But as creator of Kartikeya, Ganesha and Ganga, he also enables the cycle of rebirth.

Shiva is visualised as someone who is smeared with ash, wears animal skin and lives on a mountain made of stone, covered with snow, where no vegetation grows. These are all signs of an ascetic, who rejects household life. Hence, Daksha, first patron of yagna, does not like him. But then he is, very reluctantly, transformed into a householder by Daksha's daughter.

Seen in this light, Shiva is not the destroyer of the world, but he is the destroyer of householder life. Vishnu preserves the householder life, which is why he takes the form of Rama and Krishna to take part in worldly affairs. Brahma, by creating the household with his Vedic yagna, introduces the various vikaras such as desire, ambition, greed, hunger and jealousy into the world. This is why Brahma becomes unworthy of worship. Daksha's yagna is destroyed as it fails in a key goal — personal transformation. The point of yagna is not to make us seek control over the world by taking advantage of what we possess, but to let go and be generous with what we have, which is the main lesson of Vedanta.

Lactating dog bitten by cobra saved

Mysuru, Nov. 4 (BCT)- In a commendable act, a snake rescuer and an alert resident saved a female dog that was bitten by a cobra and its six puppies that were just four days old. The dog was in a motionless state with the snake poison affecting its nervous system. However, one of the puppies was devoured by the snake.

The female dog and its litter have now been housed in People For Animals (PFA). But for the presence of mind and timely action of the resident and the snake rescuer, the lactating dog and its puppies would not have survived.

The incident occurred on Oct. 30 when Darshan, a resident of an area near the Outer Ring Road, called a snake rescuer B. Shivakumar and told him that he had noticed a cobra near his house. Shivakumar, along with another snake rescuer Pradeep, went there but even after searching for more than an hour they could not sight the cobra.

As Shivakumar had a call from Nanjangud to rescue a snake, he left the spot. Later in the day, Darshan, who has a habit of feeding strays of the locality, noticed a female dog with seven puppies motionless. He immediately called Shivakumar and narrated the incident.

Shivakumar rushed to the spot and saw the dog's condition and suspected something was amiss. After examining the dog, it became clear to Shivakumar that the cobra had bitten the canine and the presence of cobra in the area was supported by Darshan. However, the cobra could not be found even later.

It looked like the dog had attacked the snake when it came to gulp its puppies. In the fight, the cobra had bitten the dog. The cobra had also injured another puppy, he said. Shivakumar immediately called PFA Honorary Managing Trustee Savitha Nagabhushan who arranged 10 anti-venom vials on time.

The dog and its puppies were shifted to the PFA hospital in Roopa Nagar and the animals were treated for the venomous bite. Since the mother dog was under treatment, the puppies were fed with goat milk and alternative milk replacements.

After the treatment and regular monitoring by Veterinarian Dr. Amardeep Singh, PFA staff Murthy and para-vets Anjali, Anusha and Gopal, the dog and puppies are safe and out of danger now.

Savitha Nagabhushan said that luckily they had the last vial of snake venom antiserum that night. "Now we have enough stocks as we get at least two cases in six months," she said.

After Centre, people await State also to reduce rates

Consumers elated, traders frown

While consumers rushed to petrol pumps this morning to fill fuel to the brim, many held back to wait for the State prices to come into force. Consumers said that never before has the prices been reduced drastically like the Narendra Modi Government has done this time. "Usually, there is a cut of Re. 1 or maximum Rs. 2. This is for the first time that so much has been reduced," said M.N. Nagendra who had come to a petrol pump on Hunsur Road with his SUV.

The 7-rupee cut will lead to a loss of Rs. 2,100 crore to the State exchequer, CM Basavaraj Bommai had stated in his tweet. Interestingly, the Narendra Modi Government cut the petrol and diesel prices soon after by-polls that were held in some parts of the country unlike the previous Governments.

While consumers are happy with the slashing of prices, traders, who had stocked up petrol expecting a windfall during festival season, are a disappointed lot. They will have to clear the old stocks that they had purchased at the old prices with the prevailing prices as announced by the Government.

K.M. Basavegowda, President ofAkhila Karnataka Federation of Petroleum Traders, told Star of Mysore this morning that dealers were not expecting this drastic reduction and they would be forced to bear the loss.

Hoteliers in soup

The rising price of commercial LPG cylinders has landed city hoteliers in the soup. Commercial LPG cylinders have increased by Rs. 400 in the last six months and for the first time, commercial cylinders have breached Rs. 2,000.

This, along with the rising price of essential commodities, is eating into the little profit that restaurants are making after months of lockdown. "We are forced not to increase the food prices as any such move might drive away customers who have now resumed dining out after the second wave of COVID-19," said a hotelier.

Boy kidnapped; ransom of Rs. 4 lakh demanded

Hanagodu, Nov. 4 (Mahesh& BCT)- A nine-year-old boy has been kidnapped at Hanagodu village near Hunsur last night and the kidnappers have placed a demand of Rs. 4 lakh to release the child.

Karthik

An FIR has been filed at Hunsur Rural Police Station and this morning, Mysuru Superintendent of Police (SP) R. Chethan visited the village and spoke to the family.

The child is Karthik, studying at an English-medium convent in the village and was playing with his friends in front of his house last evening. He is the son of Nagaraj, a vegetable vendor of the village. At around 6.30 pm, he asked his mother for some money to buy crackers for Deepavali.

His mother obliged and asked him to return home soon with the crackers. Karthik went to Hanagodu Circle where cracker shops have been set up. As he did not return even after 7.30 pm, the mother became desperate and called relatives and friends but the little boy was not found.

Nagaraj received a call at around 7.40 pm asking him to look for his son inside his house. Nagaraj thought that his friends might be fooling around with him but closed his shop and came home only to find his son missing. He again got a call after some time and the kidnapper placed a ransom of Rs. 4 lakh to release the child.

Panicking, the boy's father rushed to Hunsur Rural Police Station and lodged a complaint.

Inspector Chikkaswamy formed a team and desperately looked for the boy last night but to no avail. The ransom caller has switched off his mobile phone.

SP Chethan has assured the parents that Karthik will be found unharmed.

WORD OF THE DAY

Batten

Pronunciation: BAT-un.
Meaning: Batten means "to furnish or fasten with or as if with supports."
Origin: Batten comes from the name for an iron bar used to secure the covering of a hatchway on a ship, which was especially useful in preparation of stormy weather. The verb batten is used in variations of the phrase "batten down the hatches," which means "to prepare for a difficult or dangerous situation." It winds back to Latin battuere, meaning "to beat."
Example: "Everything was battened down and they were all set to leave the round-the-clock eatery — until they discovered there was no key to the front door. It had been that long since they'd locked it." — Bob Yesbek, The Cape Gazette (Lewes, Delaware), 7 May 2021.

THE ODD WORD

Baetyl

Magical or holy meteoric stone.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Burning the midnight oil

Meaning: The phrase 'burning the midnight oil' implies working overtime and working over normal standards.
Origin: Though this is a very old phrase, since oil lamps have become almost redundant today, it is still commonly used. It simply means working hard doing something late at night. However, nowadays, it also implies sleep deprivation, which is considered very unhealthy.
Example: "The assignment was very difficult, so I was forced to burn the midnight oil to get it done on time."

Rahul Dravid appointed Head Coach of Indian Men's Cricket Team: BCCI

Rahul Dravid

New Delhi, Nov. 4- Rahul Dravid was yesterday appointed the new Head Coach of the Indian men's cricket team by the Board of Control for Cricket in India's (BCCI) Cricket Advisory Committee. Dravid will take charge of the team from the upcoming home series against New Zealand, which begins on Nov. 17. Current Coach Ravi Shastri's tenure comes to an end after the completion of the ongoing ICC T20 World Cup.

"The Cricket Advisory Committee comprising Sulakshana Naik and R.P. Singh on Wednesday unanimously appointed Rahul Dravid as the Head Coach of Team India (Senior Men). The former India captain will take charge from the upcoming home series against New Zealand. The BCCI had invited applications for the said position on October 26 to appoint Ravi Shastri's successor, whose term gets over after the ongoing ICC T20 World Cup," BCCI said in a press release.

"The Board congratulates Shastri (former Team Director & Head Coach), B. Arun (Bowling Coach), R. Sridhar (Fielding Coach) and Vikram Rathour (Batting Coach) on a successful tenure. Under Shastri, the Indian Cricket Team adopted a bold and fearless approach and performed creditably both in home and away conditions. India climbed to the top position in the Test format and made it to the final of the inaugural World Test Championship in England.

"India became the first Asian team to win a Test series in Australia (2018-19) and followed it with another series win in 2020-21. India were also the first team to win all 5 T20Is in a bilateral series when it blanked New Zealand 5-0. Under Shastri and his team's guidance, India won all their seven Test series at home," the release stated.

Dravid said that it was an "absolute honour" for him to be appointed Head Coach of the team.

"It is an absolute honour to be appointed as the new Head Coach of the Indian Cricket Team and I am really looking forward to this role. Under Shastri, the team has done very well, and I hope to work with the team to take this forward. Having worked closely with most of the boys either at NCA, U19 and India A setup, I know they have the passion and desire to improve every day. There are some marquee multi-team events in the next two years, and I look forward to working with the players and the support staff to achieve our potential," Dravid was quoted in the press release.

Dravid's former teammate and current President of the BCCI, Sourav Ganguly, welcomed him to his new role and also praised his efforts in nurturing young cricketers in the country.

Rahul Dravid had an illustrious career as a cricketer, which saw him become one of the legends of the game. He captained India to landmark Test series wins in England and West Indies and is the fourth highest run-getter in the history of Test cricket with 13,288 runs in 164 matches. He also scored more than 10,000 runs in ODIs and was part of the Indian team that reached the final of the 2003 ICC World Cup.
